MR. AND MRS., H. P. WHITNEY'S DANCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney gave a dance Monday night. It was the house warming entertainment of their new home at Fifth avenue and their new home at Fifth avenue and Day, February 7th, 1898, at 3 o'clock p. m. 57th street, New York. The house was given to Mr. Whitney's mother, the late Mrs. William C. Whitney, by her brother, Oliver Payne, and was made a bridal gift by William C. Whitney to his son.

The wide square oak panelled ball was like a bower of southern smilex. In the little reception room at the left were quantities of pink roses, and the long drawing room on the Fifth avenue side of the house was adorned with nosegays of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Whitney received her guests in this room. The dancing was in the ball room on the southern side of the house. The decorations were in pink and green effects. The walls are hung with tapestries of light delicate hues, and otherwise it is finished in ivory and gold. The mantels were banked with pink roses outlined with terus. On the festooned smilax on the big mirrors were garlands of pink roses to match those of the wall hangings, and the big pillars were garlanded with the roses. The orchestra was stationed in a miniature conservatory on the platform at the western end of the room. There were all told 175 guests, and informal dancing went on until midnight. Then supper was served in the dining room at the right of the en trance. It was served at small tables some of two covers and others with all and eight. Each was trimmed with bridesmaid roses and ferns. After sup per a cotillon was danced. It was led by Craig Wadsworth, who danced alone. The favors included a variety of toys, artificial garlands, sashes, and
